Annie Oakley played a significant role in shaping the future for women. As a 19th century female pioneer, “she learned how to combine talent, skill, beauty, femininity, and humility as an entrepreneur, businesswoman, athlete, wife and as a gentle lady with steely determination” for success in all aspects of her life. As a superb entertainer, she brought verve and luster to the arena of life.

Quote from The Life and Legacy of Annie Oakley by Glenda Riley

“Aim at a high mark and you will hit it. No, not the first time, nor the second and maybe not the third... But keep on aiming and keep on shooting for only practice will make you perfect. Finally, you will hit the bullseye of success.”

Following in the footsteps of one of America’s most illustrious female trailblazers, contemporary women leaders have established The Annie Oakley Society of the National Cowboy & Western Heritage Museum in Oklahoma City. You are invited to participate!

The Annie Oakley Society is comprised of women leaders and philanthropists who, like Annie Oakley, are playing significant roles in shaping our communities and creating new horizons. Through their efforts, they are demonstrating undying determination, a passion for excellence and support for the American character preserved and promoted through this Museum…one of our national treasures.

Won’t you join us as we celebrate women and pay it forward for future generations? Get on board with this important philanthropic effort.

Mission
To build and sustain world-class educational experiences for children and families to teach the rich history of the American West for generations to come

Vision
To honor the character, perseverance and moral fiber of our namesake, Annie Oakley, through creative programming and meaningful outcomes to help make the National Cowboy and Western Heritage a world-renowned educational experience

Objectives
• Raise funds to build and sustain state-of-the-art educational exhibits, facilities, programs and outreach services to teach children, teachers and families from around the world about the rich history of the American West
• Honor a contemporary woman each year with The Annie Oakley Award in recognition of distinguished success, passion for excellence and leadership
• Celebrate the accomplishments of individuals who “Aim High” as trailblazers in their communities, by demonstrating leadership and the entrepreneurial spirit of the West
