National Cowboy & Western Heritage Museum hosts 2nd annual HalloWest, a unique trick-or-treating experience in Prosperity Junction gallery

Kids and family event offers Halloween festivities for a fun-filled night at The Cowboy

(OKLAHOMA CITY, OK, October 2, 2024) – The National Cowboy & Western Heritage Museum invites kids and families to put on their best Western or Halloween get-up for a Halloween celebration on Thursday, October 24, 2024, from 5:30 – 8:00 p.m.

Kids will enjoy a fun night of safe trick-or-treating in an unforgettable location: Prosperity Junction, The Cowboy's life-size, turn-of-the-century cattle town that will transport the whole family back to the old West. Other imaginative, hands-on activities include outdoor fun in the Town Square with fast-draw target practice and Western dancing, plus face painting, fall-themed crafts and more! Candy alternatives will also be available.

Children 12 and under receive free admission. General admission tickets are $20 with advance purchase and $25 at the door. Members pay $15 with advance purchase and $20 at the door. For more information, visit the website at <https://nationalcowboymuseum.org/hallowest>.
